

Greg Hill and I made a podcast. A new kind of podcast. It is less than 20 minutes long, there isn't any silly banter, and we learn a lot - both of us.

It is just a fun bmx conversation to catch up with Greg. We invite you to listen.

Write an engaging YouTube video description for a new "Fireside BMX Chat" podcast. The podcast is hosted by Kyle A. Huffman of Lititz BMX. Kyle is joined by his 18 month old daughter to meet BMX legend Greg Hill. Greg is now the Owner/Operator of Epoxy Professional Services, which services the Los Angeles region. Greg is there to make a bid on Kyle's garage floors.

During their initial meeting, the three discussed:

- Greg Hill's flooring process, cost example, and warranty and personal guarantee of quality.
- Why does Greg Hill post so many pictures of the garages he does?
- Is it actually epoxy that Greg uses?
- How to get a hold of Greg if you want to hire him.
- Does he have any employees?
- Greg's friendship with BMX Legend Harry Leary, with a focus on:
  - Find out if Greg owed Harry a last trip into a wall.
  - Did they meet at Western Sports Arama (WSA)?
  - Was Greg in a "Little Rascal He-Man Woman Hater's Club" mindset with his wife?
  - Was Harry Leary boastful when he got a named jump?
  - Food fight's on the freeway.
  - And... Greg learns for the first time that Harry credited him with the inspiration for his signature jump - "The Leary" - What does Greg think about that?
- Practicing gates with Stu Thomsen, Clint Miller, and Harry Leary in the driveway off Greg's parents house when he was a teenager
- 1985 Grands and Pete Loncarevich
- What happened after Greg shut down GHP?
- Most Importantly: Is Greg Hill happy?

🔥 **Fireside BMX Chat: Greg Hill Talks Garage Floors, BMX Legends & Epoxy Life** 🔥

Welcome to a new episode of **Fireside BMX Chat**, hosted by **Kyle A. Huffman of Lititz BMX** — and yes, his adorable daughter is along for the ride again! 🍼💥

In this episode, BMX Hall of Famer and industry icon Greg Hill drops by Kyle's house—not to hit a track, but to bid on his garage floor! Greg, now the proud Owner/Operator of Epoxy Surface Professionals (serving the Los Angeles region), shares some seriously smooth insights—both about garage flooring and his legendary BMX past.

We cover:

- ✓ Greg's flooring process, pricing, warranties & what real epoxy actually is
- 📷 Why Greg posts so many photos of garages he works on
- ☎ How to contact Greg (yes, we've got the contact info!)
- 👛 Does Greg work solo or have a crew?

And then... things take a nostalgic turn. 🧐

🏁 Greg opens up about old-school BMX memories:

- * His friendship with Harry Leary
  - * Did he owe Harry a last trip into the wall?
  - * Food fights on the freeway 🍔🚗💥
  - * If he was in the Little Rascals - He-Man Woman Hater club
  - * What he thinks about being the inspiration behind "The Leary" jump 😬
  - * Practicing gates with Stu Thomsen, Clint Miller, and Harry in his own driveway
  - * 1985 Grands, Pete Loncarevich, and
  - * What came after the end of GHP
  - * More...
- * But most importantly... Is Greg Hill happy today?

This episode is packed with BMX gold and garage goals. Whether you're into race stories, garage upgrades, or just want to hear two generations of Huffmans (and a legend) hang out—this one's for you.
